Ketchel is not likely to do the but other heavyweights are sure to be trotted out and Johnson is sure to be kept busy,

Billy Delaney, who developed Jim Corbett and latterly Jim Jeffries, has a unique idea to rob Johnson of his Kaufman along as a championship possibility. Delaney made Jeffries champion of the world and now believes he has his successor, and there is little chance for doubting that Delaney really believes Kaufman can whip Jeff. He does not believe that the big Ketchel Puts O'Brien Down boy ever can get back into condition to make much of a showing in the ring, and as the heavyweight situation has developed into a dispute between Jeffries and Johnson as to who is who in the championship ranks, Delaney wants to settle the question by arranging a Jeffries-Kaufman fight. One of them must win, and unquestionably nothing less than the undisputed heavyweight championship would go to the victor, says Delaney. That certainly would be one way of gettin * ing a negro as the champion of cham-

Then there is a chance-nothing more-that til Jeff should break both hands and legs and the native son could win the undisputed championship by the favor of an accidental fortune.

It is the opinion of about 99 out of every 100 sportsmen in America that Al and Delaney are about the only ones who really take the native son so seriously as to give him a chance with Jeff. If the big fellow desides accept the match, he could go in the ring and win without training. MATTERS OF IMPORTANCE TO CITY FAVORABLY CONSIDERED.

Special Rates, Uptown Office and Modern Freight Depot Among Improvements.

A. C. Ridgway, general manager of the Denver & Rio Grande; S. V. Derrah, assistant general freight agent J. C. Dailey, general superintendent Benton, general passenger agent of that road, were Ogden visit ors Friday, and, in their calls, paid the Standard-Examiner a visit. conferred with the head of the Four States Fair and gave assurances that whatever they could do toward making the fair a success would be done In the matter of rates, they said Ogden was entitled and should have the lowest rates allowed on their road within the state of Utah, and they added that the rates would apply on the Western Pacific, which would be an important line by the time of the opening of the fair, perhaps extending and doing business to the extreme western side of Nevada by September

These railroad officials were in the city for the purpose of taking general observations regarding the possibilities of improving the service of the Gould interests. They expressed themselves as much pleased with the outlook in Ogden, unhesitatingly stating that, in their judgment, the Rio Grande could well afford to spend a little mosey by way of improving the facilities of the road here.

President Heywood, of the Wober club, Mayor Brewer and Secretary Reynolds, with other prominent citizens of the city, took the railroad men in tow while in the city and while showing them the city did not lose sight of the opportunity to advise them that there were certain things along that Ogden is much in need or and much deserving of.

One proposition presented to gentlemen for consideration was that of establishing uptown offices for general purposes, arguing that Ogden is altogether too large a city for its peonle to be forced to go to the depot to 4 0 transact business with the road; that there should be an uptown office where chased and where those having dealings with the company regarding freight traffic could attend to it in the central part of the city rather than having to go each time to the Union

Another proposition presented to the railroad men was that the Gould interests should build a modern freight depot on the premises owned by the company on Wall avenue, near the Eccles Lumber company yards. was argued by the Ogden representatives that the freight traffic of the city is quite sufficient to warrant the improvement suggested. They also impressed the visitors with the idea that Ogden is large enough just now to rather demand such improvements instead of begging for them.

The Gould representatives took very kindly to the logic of the mayor of the city and other local representatives in the party, quite fully concurring in what they said. In conformity with their convictions regarding the proposed improvements the visitors stated that some action would be taken in the premises. They said that it was the intention of the Kio Grande people to build a new freight depot on Wall avenue as soon as arrangements to do so could be made and that they were very favorably impressed with the idea of establishing an uptown office in the city for the transaction of business with the road.

The visit of the gentlemen was very pleasant and they left the city with words of encouragement to Ogden upon their lips. The Ogden representatives who had the privilege of meeting with the railroad representatives state that they are satisfied that the Rio Grande people will do much toward the improvement of their railroad facilities here as soon as it is possible and that marked changes may be looked for within a short perlod of time.

Ogden City, Utah, March 26, 1909. To the Honorable Board of Education, Ogden, Utah.

Gentlemen: Pursuant to the orders of your hon orable body, given under date of March 20, 1909, through the clerk of the board, I beg leave to submit herewith the following regarding the now on deposit with the Ogden State Bank, Ogden, Utah, also their statements for each year, during the of the account, showing amounts received and disbursed from the time the account was opened. I find that in the year 1891 the receipts and disbursements were equal, thus balancing the account for that year. In 1892 there was a difference between the receipts and disburse ments of $3,132 87. I find during this year or on January 19, 1892, a charge of $70, which should have been made to the county school account and was subsequently credited back to the territorial account on January 24, 1893. During 1892 the warrants were all signed by the County Superintendent of Schools Joseph S. Peery, except some signed, "Joseph S. Peery by James Pingree." In this same year, or I should say, December 31, 1891, there seems to have been two apportion ments, they, however, were paid out in 1892, where the difference seems

The first of $3,336.59, which evi dently belonged to the year previous and not collected, or an amount ac cruing from some special tax; at any rate, it was apportioned on the population of 1890, which was 6,079 pupils or .54887 per capita. The second amount was $33,885.78, which should have been apportioned by the county superintendent of schools on 6,677 population at $5.07 1-2 per capita, but evidently was apportioned on 6,079 population, the same as the smaller amount of $3,336.59. This would account for $3,034.86 of the amount left on deposit in the Ogden State

I have examined the warrants now with the above named bank, and so tory and economics in the High school, far as I can determine they are all was read and promptly turned down. drawn in regular form. There was, however, an item $8,275.05, credited they would not tolerate or consider April 4, 1894, being draft drawn by resignations from any teachers at ims John A. I have also examined the account on the bank's books, and everything seems to be correct so far as their books are concerned The bank feels that the board should pass a resolution accepting the amount before they take the receipt of the treasurer for the same.

I beg to submit the foregoing as my full examination of the accounts on their books, and to say that the difference occurred in the year 1892, that is the amount now on deposit. JAMES F. BURTON, Another interesting report came from Special Accountant and Auditor H. H. Harris, giving a complete debursements of the board, covering the period from July 1, 1907, to March 1, The report was accepted and ordered filed and the clerk was authorized to issue a warrant in favor of Mr. Harris in the sum of $60 for the services he had rendered in the auditing of the accounts. In his report Mr. Harris made recommendations regarding the betterment of the system of bookkeeping now in vogue by the board of education, the recommendations being received and placed on file for future reference. The report was given as follows: Ogden, Utah, March 26, 1909. To the Honorable Board of Education, 12th.
